Addressing and Resolving Poor Performance - United States Office of Personnel Management 2012-06-26

Most Federal employees work hard, and their performance is considered good or even exceptional. However, at times Federal supervisors are faced with employees whose performance is not acceptable. This purpose of this book, Addressing and Resolving Poor Performance: A Guide for Supervisors, is to help you address and resolve poor performance. This guidance should be used in concert with the technical advice you receive from your agency's human resources staff. You should also be aware that most agencies have specific procedures and requirements that must be followed, whether they are part of a negotiated bargaining agreement or other internal agency regulation. Addressing and resolving poor performance is a three-step process. These three steps are: 1) communicating expectations and performance problems; 2) providing an opportunity to improve; and 3) taking action. This booklet is organized accordingly into three steps. At the end of each section, you will find a checklist as well as answers to commonly asked questions. In the appendix, you will find samples of documents that can be used throughout this process. Dealing with performance problems is a real challenge for any supervisor. Experienced supervisors often say it is one of the toughest parts of their jobs. Nevertheless, it is a key supervisory responsibility, and failure to address poor performance can have a greater impact than you may appreciate. Some of the reasons supervisors often give for not addressing poor performance include: dealing with poor performance can be time consuming; if action is taken against an employee, it will lower morale among other employees and create a less productive work environment; telling employees that they are not performing satisfactorily is unpleasant and requires special human relations skills; the procedural steps involved in addressing poor performance are complex and highly technical; if a formal performance-based action is taken, it is likely to be appealed and ultimately overturned; and upper management will not support the action taken to address poor performance. The focus of this booklet is to help supervisors address and resolve poor performance. The best way for supervisors to handle poor performance issues is to take action to avoid performance problems before they occur.~

Promoting the Educational Success of Children and Youth Learning English - National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine 2017-08-25

Educating dual language learners (DLLs) and English learners (ELs) effectively is a national challenge with consequences both for individuals and for American society. Despite their linguistic, cognitive, and social potential, many ELs—who account for more than 9 percent of enrollment in grades K-12 in U.S. schools—are struggling to meet the requirements for academic success, and their prospects for success in postsecondary education and in the workforce are jeopardized as a result. Promoting the Educational Success of Children and Youth Learning English: Promising Futures examines how evidence based on research relevant to the development of DLLs/ELs from birth to age 21 can inform education and health policies and related practices that can result in better educational outcomes. This report makes recommendations for policy, practice, and research and data collection focused on addressing the challenges in caring for and educating DLLs/ELs from birth to grade 12.

The Funding of School Education - Collectif 2017-06-26

This report on the funding of school education constitutes the first in a series of thematic comparative reports bringing together findings from the OECD School Resources Review. School systems have limited financial resources with which to pursue their objectives and the design of school funding policies plays a key role in ensuring that resources are directed to where they can make the most difference. As OECD school systems have become more complex and characterised by multi-level governance, a growing set of actors are increasingly involved in financial decision-making. This requires designing funding allocation models that are aligned to a school system's governance structures, linking budget planning procedures at different levels to shared educational goals and evaluating the use of school funding to hold decision makers accountable and ensure that resources are used effectively and equitably. This report was co-funded by the European Commission. .
